SAD DETAILS OF THE DEATH OF DAUGHTER OF DR. TAYLOR

The sad intelligence of the death of Mrs. Parmenter, daughter of Dr. Taylor of this city, was accompanied by the following particulars:

Mrs. Parmenter, wife of Lieut. H. E. Parmenter of the United States navy, leaped from a fourth-story window in the Portland flats, Fourteenth street and Thomas circle, at 9:15 this morning and received injuries which resulted in her death within two hours thereafter. Her body and lower jawbones were badly broken, nearly all her teeth were knocked out, and the nasal bones were driven up in the neighborhood of the forehead. There was also a compound fracture of the bones of the left elbow, and a contusion over the region of the heart, indicated that possibly a rib may have been driven into the chest cavity. Severe bruises on the lower part of the back indicate possible injury to the pelvic bone.

Mrs. Parmenter fell a distance of about fifty feet, and there was nothing to break her descent to the stone sidewalk below. The window from which she fell is one of two in a room used as the library of the apartments occupied by her husband and herself. The windows of this room are in a recess formed by two bay windows, one on either side, which considerably obstruct the view up and down Fourteenth street, upon which they face. Near the window was a small writing desk, at which Mrs. Parmenter was accustomed to do her correspondence.

Mrs. Parmenter ate breakfast with her husband this morning in the cafe on the ground floor, and when the lieutenant went to his office at the Navy Department she went up to her apartments in the elevator and sent her maid to get her morning meal. No one was in the room with her.

A score or more of horrified people rushed to her assistance when they saw her fall, and she was picked up from a pool of blood and taken up to her apartments. Dr. Charles R. Collins, her physician, who resides opposite the Portland, on Fourteenth street, was immediately summoned. Mrs. Parmenter was partly conscious, but could not speak owing to her injuries. She recovered consciousness entirely a few minutes afterward, but was placed under opiates to relieve the shock and permit a preliminary examination of her injuries, which resulted as above described.

Lieutenant Parmenter had just taken his seat at his office desk when apprised of his calamity, and went at once to his wife's side.

Mrs. Parmenter, who was about thirty-three or thirty-five years old, was very slender, having been in poor health for some time.

She had been afflicted with melancholia, which sometimes takes the form of acute mania. She had not hitherto shown, however, any indications of acute mania.

She was the daughter of Dr. Taylor, now a practicing physician in Honolulu. Coroner Nevitt viewed the body of Mrs. Parmenter and heard the statements of those who knew of her condition prior to the time she received the fatal injuries. Upon concluding his investigation the coroner told a Star reporter that he would give a certificate of death showing that Mrs. Parmenter had committed suicide at a time when her mind was affected to the extent of rendering her wholly irresponsible for the act.

The funeral will take place Thursday morning at 10 o'clock. Services will be conducted at the Portland and interment will be made at Arlington—Washington Star.
